Advances in radar technology have made stealth fighter a normal fighter plane.

Willsword country developed the latest fighter XF-98.

It is a fighter with high attack power and phenomenal durability.

Due to the MD armor equipped with this fighter aircraft, radar performance has declined greatly.

MD armor is an armor that weakens enemy missiles by irradiating missiles with high power laser and EMP.

The Willsword country further evolved XF - 98 and completed "XF-99 Artemis".

This aircraft became the ultimate invincible fighter.

And feared as "Fortress in the air" from pilots of the Maxell federation.

When you head into the Cathedral, the rest of the group are in the Sanctuary to greet you. Jason sits behind his computer array, while Heather and Emma lean against a stack of wood and debris. Carl and Candace stand at a pillar where a statue of St. Peter rests, and Mindy sits on the edge of a table of guns.

"Where is Javier," asks Uncle Lou as he climbs down the ladder from a watch tower.

"He didn't make it back."

"Look everyone, I want to take Charles to my office and get all the details. We'll meet as a group in the morning."

"Will all due respect, Tom, we want to know now," says Mindy.

You tell the group...

- ☒ "I have no idea. He ran off once we got inside the depot."
- ☐ "Unfortunately, he was attacked by a zombie and didn't survive."
- ☐ "He was murdered by a military group at the depot."
- ☐ "We were separated, and when I found him, he was dead."
- ☐ "We were separated, and when I found him, I was being chased and had to run."
- ☐ "For some reason, he attacked me, and I fought back. Unfortunately, he would not stop fighting, and I killed him."

I played the original Myst way way back in the day. Playing Riven after that but never finished it, with all of it's discs! This game really brought me back to the OG Myst.. Got this ironically with a friend, but the game is quite decent imo. We were able to play co-op, and I actually can't wait to get another session in the books. 10/10 would play again. Massive tank battles with a piece of strategy.

The one big minus is speed of our tank and very long routes on some levels.. This is a great little racer. Nothing special except solid cars, good handling, and stupid AI. Really makes me feel good inside to win every race because the computer is so stupid. Play it if you like racing games and want to boost your self-esteem.. This engine here is a pretty well detailed one, and it comes with a generous handful of scenarios in which you won't get bored. - Also it comes with an also pretty generous load of rolling stock for goods work.

You can have pretty much every single member of the class because you can change numbers, nameplates, headboards, shed codes, tender crests, etc. Also it's great if you want to learn use of advanced locos, steam chest simulation, injector, etc.

I highly recommend getting this since, since it is nothing but a pleasure to drive.
It's also a must have if you're a fan of LNER locos like me.

Ever wanted to play a combination of a bad puzzle game, and a bad rhythm game? Well here it is! Play away!. Loved it!!!. Do you wanna read something straight out of a middle schoolers neptunia fanfiction account? Just wanna wank one real fast to something with no substance? Love characters that react to situations unrealistically?! If yes, then this is the game for you!. I enjoyed the experience Into Blue Valley crafts and this isn't a straight-up "No" to recommending it, however the game takes all of about a half an hour to see everything, ends abruptly (the game just closes at the end? No credits or anything, just back to desktop?) and at 4.99$ that is quite a costly, brief experience.

Into Blue Valley is an immersive, at-times spooky V at-times relaxing, VERY brief (30 min maybe??) experience. The game does a good job of crafting an immersive environment via its weather effects (snow V wind breezing throughout the outdoor areas..) and its orchestral music is very well-done and fitting to the environments. The gameplay itself is nothing revolutionary for the Walking Simulator genre, you slowly plod your way along to read various notes scattered throughout the desolate city, search for a handful of items to be "used" (placed) at a later location near the game's finale, while occasionally seeing creepy, dark silhouettes of figures in the distance who will always disappear before you get too close to them with the same "flash of white" effect. This is cool and unsettling the first several times it happens, but as the game reaches its climax it begins to do the same effect every few steps, and with each repeated use of the same shtick it begins to lessen the impact of each time it's used.

Into Blue Valley isn't a bad game per se, it effectively crafts a range of player reactions during its brief storyline ranging from introspection to unsettled via its foreboding atmosphere, and (if you are familiar with the slower pace of Walking Simulator games) you will likely want to see it through to its end to unravel more of its ambiguous, surreal setting. Unfortunately, its price of 4.99$ seems very high considering what little content it offers. I would recommend Into Blue Valley to Walking Simulator enthusiasts, and people who don't mind short but memorable experiences, but at a sparse 30 minutes to see nearly all of the experience, you may be better off seeking out another game or waiting until this is on sale.. Maybe it's my unjustly high standards, but if you are making a game where your entire selling point is an audio experience, I'd expect there to be a bit more effort put into the sound making (read: don't reuse the same sound assets). I can overlook listening to my daughter character repeating the same directions over and over again. I can't however accept that I'm fighting a troop of knights, who thankfully have some variant in their voice and personality, but still have the same attack and death sound. I know this is just nitpicking, but it just feels extremely lazy, especially since sound plays such an important role in the game.

Another problem I had with the game is that it actively tries to stop you from getting immersed. The Tutorial/Guide voice is very annoying and there was no option in the settings to disable it. It really sucks when you took the time to blindfold yourself in a dark room and covered your ears with a decent pair of headphones and your adventure is ruined by a semi-robotic female voice going \u201cLOADING\u201d.

Mechanics wise, it's ok. They were creative in painting the world around you. The sound of your footstep change depending on where you are, the background noises are often filled with subtle sounds to make the world seem alive. Utilizing the daughter character as a marker was also a smart workaround to enable players to move around the game world. However, the maneuvering could use a little tweaking. You could take a wrong turn, and on asking your daughter where to go, she will simply repeatedly tell you to TURN RIGHT. You're better off playing it by ear, and try to get closer to her voice. Controls are responsive but the combat system felt a bit too simple. The story isn't too bad and your daughter sounds like a cute girl, so things are probably pretty good.

Overall, if you're looking to just sate a curiosity, then this game would probably be enough to sate it (and the price point is quite fair). However, if you were unfortunately looking to put yourself in the shoes of a blind knight, you will have to look elsewhere.

. I actually enjoyed this game, it's something different. It's like the Tony Hawk of bullfighting. I just wish there was blood. Now we need a sequel, Running From The Bulls. With the option to be the bull :D

EDIT: I in no way endorse the harming and subsequent murder of bulls in real life. I do understand it is a large part of history and culture and vehemently defended by certain demographics in parts of Spain. I, personally, am against the unnecessary real life animal violence, but, that's my opinion and I don't have the cultural and ethnic background of the people who enjoy this thing, so I can't condemn them for something they were raised on. I just like to do it virtually because it's (no pun intended) a completely foreign sport for me.. Around the world/10
